

JESÚS DANIEL HERNÁNDEZ

THE WALKING TENOR

Stories That Sing

A Mexican-American tenor, U.S. Army wartime veteran, and storyteller bringing opera, Latin song, and American classics to life through concerts, recordings, and cinematic stories.

ARMY VETERAN	TENOR & RECORDING ARTIST	STORIES THAT SING
Iraq / Operation Iraqi Freedom	Opera • Latin Song • American Classics	Podcast • Concerts • Cinematic Storytelling

Full Artist Bio

Jesús Daniel Hernández is a Mexican-American tenor, U.S. Army wartime veteran, recording artist, and storyteller whose work brings opera, Latin song, American classics, and cinematic storytelling into the same human space.

Born in Ciudad Juárez, Mexico, and shaped by a life that has crossed borders, battlefields, stages, and family memory, Hernández sings with the perspective of an artist who understands that music is never only sound. It is inheritance, survival, longing, humor, grief, faith, and the road home.

He served in the U.S. Army, including service in Iraq during Operation Iraqi Freedom, before continuing his path as a classical singer. His military background remains part of his artistic identity: discipline, resilience, service, and the ability to carry a story with honesty and emotional force.

Hernández's vocal work is rooted in the tenor tradition, with a warm lirico-spinto voice suited to opera, Neapolitan song, Latin American repertoire, classical crossover, and American standards. His operatic roles include Andrea Chénier in the title role, Pinkerton in Madama Butterfly, Rodolfo in La bohème, Macduff in Macbeth, and Roméo in Roméo et Juliette. These roles reflect the dramatic and lyrical range at the center of his performing identity.

His career path included the Domingo-Cafritz Young Artist Program at Washington National Opera, an important early chapter in his development, while his artistic identity today is defined by the full road he has traveled: soldier, singer, recording artist, storyteller, and creator of The Walking Tenor.

As The Walking Tenor, he creates performances that move between concert, story, and lived experience. His programs connect Italian song, Mexican and Latin American classics, American songs, and operatic repertoire through spoken storytelling, inviting audiences not only to hear beautiful music, but to understand why these songs still matter.

His recordings include the album L'orologio, inspired by romantic Italian and Latin song, and his new release America the Beautiful, a cinematic interpretation for tenor and guitar. He is also the host and creator of The Walking Tenor Podcast, a bilingual storytelling project exploring the hidden human stories behind beloved songs, singers, and musical traditions.

Through his concerts, recordings, podcast, and creative projects, Hernández continues to build a bridge between opera and everyday life, between Mexico and the United States, between memory and performance, and between the songs people already love and the deeper stories they carry.

Short Bio

Jesús Daniel Hernández is a Mexican-American tenor, U.S. Army wartime veteran, recording artist, and creator of The Walking Tenor. Known for his warm lirico-spinto voice and emotionally direct storytelling, he performs opera, Latin American song, Neapolitan repertoire, American classics, and classical crossover music. His operatic roles include Andrea Chénier, Pinkerton in Madama Butterfly, Rodolfo in La bohème, Macduff in Macbeth, and Roméo in Roméo et Juliette. His recordings include the album L'orologio and his new release America the Beautiful, a cinematic interpretation for tenor and guitar. He is also the host and creator of The Walking Tenor Podcast, a bilingual project exploring the hidden human stories behind beloved songs and musical traditions.

One-Line Bio

A Mexican-American tenor, U.S. Army wartime veteran, recording artist, and storyteller bringing opera, Latin song, American classics, and cinematic stories to life.

Selected Highlights

Selected Operatic Roles	Andrea Chénier (title role); Pinkerton - Madama Butterfly ; Rodolfo - La bohème ; Macduff - Macbeth ; Roméo - Roméo et Juliette
Recordings	L'orologio ; America the Beautiful
Podcast	The Walking Tenor Podcast - bilingual storytelling behind the songs people already love
Repertoire	Opera, Italian and Neapolitan song, Mexican and Latin American classics, American standards, classical crossover
Identity Pillars	Army Veteran; Tenor & Recording Artist; Stories That Sing
Booking Focus	Concerts, cultural events, ceremonies, memorials, private engagements, and storytelling-based programs

Contact

Website: thewalkingtenor.com

Email: admin@thewalkingtenor.com